

Dear FCC,
I am writing to urge you to reject petition 04-160 from the NAB.

This type of "Chicken Little" argument is used repeatedly by groups in attempt to stop new technologies. Movie studios and network tv tried the same tactic against the VCR and, more recently, Tivo-like devices. It doesn't hold water on either account.

The fact is that technological change is good for any industry. Not only that, but as a proponent of free-markets and less government regulation, you should reject the petition on principle alone.

Thank you,
Louie Clyatt